Academic Hall of Fame Inductee Dr. Anne Burns Thomas

Dr. Anne Burns Thomas has guided generations of educators to successful careers in urban schools.

An associate professor in the School of Education's Foundations and Social Advocacy Department, Burns Thomas joined the College in 2006, having earned a doctorate in educational leadership from University of Pennsylvania.

She coordinates the Cortland Urban Recruitment of Educators (C.U.R.E.) program, which prepares future teachers to help children learn and thrive despite the many challenges facing them.

SUNY Cortland students singled her out from among all full-time teaching faculty members for a Student Affairs Connection Award and for an Outstanding Woman of Color Award.

As a partner with the Syracuse City School District through its 13-year-old Building Men Program Inc., she organizes campus visits for approximately 300 disadvantaged urban middle and high school students per year. This project has introduced generations of at-risk youth to the idea of a college education while offering C.U.R.E. students, Cortland athletes and student leaders of color a rewarding mentoring opportunity.

Since 2012, Burns Thomas has captured $860,000 in external grants to support the C.U.R.E. program. Her scholarly work includes 16 published articles and 32 presentations on improving diversity in education.

At SUNY Cortland, she co-chairs the President's Council for Inclusive Excellence. Burns Thomas also serves as an external reviewer for the Rhode Island Office of the Postsecondary Commissioner.
